

INTERNATIONAL SYMPOSIUM
BUDDHISM AND THE ENVIRONMENT

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 14TH, 2003

1:15 – 3:30 PM
KEYNOTE ADDRESSES

Lewis Lancaster
Professor (Emeritus), University of California,
Berkeley
"Buddhist Strategies and Discourses: The Views of Causation and Contemporary Problems"

Ryusei Takeda
Professor, Ryukoku University
"Where Should the True Encounter Between Religion and Science Take Place?"

PANEL ONE 3:45 – 5:30 PM
BUDDHISM AND ENVIRONMENTAL ACTIVISM

Stephanie Kaza
Professor, University of Vermont
"How Much Is Enough?"

Duncan Williams
Professor, University of California, Irvine
"Contemporary Japanese Buddhist Environmental Activism and Sustainable Development"

Ryugo Matsui
Professor, Ryukoku University
"Nature as Mandala-Minakata Kumagusu's Perception of Ecology Based on Buddhism and Shintoism"

PANEL TWO 7:00 – 8:45 PM
BUDDHIST PERSPECTIVES ON THE ENVIRONMENT

Ruben Habito
Professor, Southern Methodist University
"Is Buddhism an Ecology-Friendly Religion?— Challenges and Possibilities"

Tetsunori Koizumi
Professor, Ryukoku University
"The Noble Eightfold Path as a Prescription for Sustainable Living"

Malcolm David Eckel
Professor, Boston University
"Is Buddhist Environmentalism a Contradiction in Terms?"

Mitsuya Dake
Professor, Ryukoku University
"The Buddhist Perspective of the Environment and Ecological Way of Living"

1:00 TO 9:00 PM
ALUMNI HOUSE, UNIVERSITY OF
CALIFORNIA, BERKELEY
ADMISSION IS FREE
CONFERENCE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

For Information Please Contact

Institute of Buddhist Studies office: 650/938-7192
fax: 650/938-5937 voice mail: 650/562-1776
web site: www.shin-ibs.edu e-mail: admin@shin-ibs.edu

Open Research Center of Ryukoku University
web site: www.ryukoku.ac.jp/soken/buddhism-orc/